SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 25. THE COMMUNICATION signed by the Superintendent of Water Works, and which appears elsewhere in to-day's paper, requires a few words of comment. We shall be brief, because we propose to have no controversy with the official named. His age, his bodily infirmities, and his well-known peculiarities of style and temperament, all forbid it. Neither do we intend to afford amusement or occupation to any one who would carry on a war of words from behind his

Our article of last week on the water works and their management had all the well-known marks of an editorial utterance; but the writer of the letter to which we now refer pretends to be, (and perhaps is) ignorant of the commonest rules of journalism, and intimates a doubt as to whether it was editorial or not.

It is stated in the letter' signed by the Superintendent, that we assume that the consumption of water in the city is the same now as fifteen years ago. Nothing was said by us on that point. But we are aware (and the writer apparently is not) that whereas one spring sufficed for several years after the works were completed, there are now three in use, all belonging to government, and two of them in the rear of the premises occupied by the Minister of Finance. These are all connected-not by a five inch pipe alone, as is asserted-but by five, eight and above the reservoir, and the other two are possibly a quarter of a mile above, and near the Kapena falls. So far from it being "a fallacy that the use of the water from the cow-pasture might be frequently avoided, it is a well-known fact that for days together while the ditch water, in addition to that from the springs, has been ponring in at one side of the reservoir, the surplus has been running off from the waste pipe at the opposite side. As to the silt-traps-we are ingenuously told that the employees at the water office "alone are cognizant of the fact that the traps and gates are regularly opened once at least every month," &c. It is undoubtedly true that an employee of that office knows of the existence of the silt-traps, he having been employed in laying the pipes; but that the knowledge extended beyond him, or that the traps have been regularly opened once a month, are propositions that will be received convince us of error in the article of last week; but we do find that the writer is himself ignorant of the subject on which he undertakes to treat.

ON THE SUBJECT of the so-called Board of Health, the Gazette and Islander are both singularly affected. The former, like a certain longtailed animal of the genus Simia, when indislatter, after discussing an impossible "alternato the end of the chapter.

to the noble ship and her gallant officers, who, strangers, but almost as a part of ourselves, and their departure will leave a void not easily filled. Of one thing they may be assured, that should the duties of the service permit them again to come this way, they will find a hearty welcome in these " sunny isles of the Sea."

FROM ALL that we can gather, it would appear that the immediate cause of the suspension of the Bank of California was the scarcity of coin on the Coast at the time. Since January last, it is stated that more than twenty millions in coin had been sent East; about four millions had been sent into the interior to pay for the purchase and moving of crops; and several millions were stored up in reserve, of which the new and powerful banking House of Flood and O'Brien (who by the sudden enhancement in value of their mines have become immensely wealthy) admitted to having two millions. When heavy houses like that hoard goin, of course others must do the same in order to save themselves from a sudden emergency. The Bank of California, with two millions in its vaults, was no doubt thought to be safe. But with thirteen millions of deposits and with enemies able to concentrate the press (two papers were untiring in their efforts to destroy the credit of the Bank) it was impossible to resist the torrent. A heavy blow was given to the prosperity of the State; but the blow will be only transitory, for its mines and its grainfields are vast resources.

WHEN THE last Legislature provided by law that after a certain date the traffic in opium should cease, honorable members-and probably many others-felt that a good work had been of Thrum; 10 do mdse, 440 sts flour to Leo Ngo; 15 cs make to Castle & Cooke; 34 pkgs do, 81 bars iron, 1 cse globes, 12 crow bars, 38 pkgs hardware to Dillingham & Co; 6 hf bhis liquor, 1 bale make to Lenchan & Co; 2 cs drugs to Dr McKibbin; 2 pkgs blinds, 1 do mouldings, 1 do hardware, 1 do wall paper to Lewers & Dickaon; 20 sks flour, 46 pkgs mdse, 1 cse furniture to Hall & Son; 30 sks flour to J T Waterhouse; 2 plates steel, 1 do iron to T H Davies; 2 pkgs dry goods to S Magnin; 75 pkgs China goods to Ching Fan; 1 bx coin ($10,000) to Bishop & Co; 4 bxs groceries to T A Lloyd; 25 sks potatoes, 8 pkgs liquors, 23 do mdse to Order. months, opium users have not suffered from any diminution of their usual supplies. And we are informed, upon what is reasonably good authority, that the consumption is going on as spring. I propose to demonstrate the fallacy of this before, and in fact increasing, among the natives, position. The author seems to assume that the conwho have even better facilities than ever for procuring the drug. If a chinaman is found in possession of opium and questioned as to where he got it, the ready answer is that is some of the old stock, bought just before the law went into effect. This same "old stock " will prove to be like the widow's cruise of oil-it will never be exhausted; and to what extent it may be replenished by smuggling, now that there are no licensed dealers to watch the business, is mere matter for conjecture. Thus far, it would seem that our recent legislation for the suppression of the use of opium has proved abortive.

HONOLULU AS A PORT OF REFUGE.

The arrival at this port one day during the past week of two American whalers to repair lamages received on the "off-shore ground." brings to mind the fact of our central position in the midst of the Pacific, which emphatically renders us the refuge of the commerce traversing this ocean, whenever crippled through accident For San Francisco-Per J B Ford, Sept 22d-W H Polithis ocean, whenever crippled through accident titles, T K Park, Mrs C E Williams, E Williams, Chas Willow or otherwise. The accident in this instance occurred several thousand miles south-east of these Islands, and their nearest leeward port was Tahiti; but Honolulu was preferred because the experience of shipmasters has established the fact that any and every requisite for repairing a ship can be obtained here as promptly, satisfactorily, and economically as in any port in the world. The work of our shipwrights (and we may add, of our sailmakers) has in times past established a reputation for faithfulness and durability that is world-wide. For any vessel traversing this ocean and finding herself under the necessity of making a port, when at almost any point eastward of 180° west longitude and between 40° north and 20° south latitude, the prevailing winds are such and our position so central, that it is easier to make these Islands than any other point, excepting perhaps Tahiti, when in south latitude. There, however, the expense connected with repairs and supplies has been so high as to deter ships, that have unfortunately been compelled to go there, from ever making a second call.

A striking instance is related in late San Francisco papers of the disastrous consequences to the lives of a ship's company which resulted from the master's failing to bear up for these Islands in an emergency. On the 17th of last month, the British ship Bremen arrived at that port, after a passage of one hundred and ninety-two days from Liverpool. Out of a crew of thirty-six men, there were but four fit for duty when the ship reached port, and twelve had died of scurvy at sea. On her arrival, an inquiry was had at the British Consulate as to the causes of the terrible mortality on board. The Captain was much blamed, because when two-thirds of his crew were disabled, on the 10th of July, he did not run down to Honolulu, which he might have reached in ten days, whereas it was thirty-eight days from the date mentioned before he reached San Francisco. The Captain's response was that he "was counting on the winds and weather to make San Francisco, and never for one moment thought of putting into any other port." The San Francisco Commercial Herald characterized it as "a horrid voyage, and entirely without excuse." Had the master used good judgment and put away for these Islands on the 10th of twelve inch pipes, with the reservoir. The first July, he might have saved the lives of his crew, spring, as we have stated, is situated a few yards and after all reasonable detention here, have had time to reach his port of destination say a week

We had come to regard them not as of October, 1874, since which time he has resided at Lahalna. He leaves a widow, an adopted son and two grandchildren. The deceased was a man of sterling character, prompt, honorable and straightforward, and was highly esteemed for his executive ability by successive Kings, in whose councils he held a prominent place. By his own positive directions his funeral took place on the day of his death, without any of the pomp and display to which Hawaiians (and others as well) are so partial, and his body, enclosed in a plain pine coffin, was deposited in a vault in the cemetery of the Episcopal church

At a public meeting of the citizens of Labaina, the following resolutions in memory of the ex-Governor were adopted :

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from among us His Ex. P. Nahaolelua.

Therefore, be it Resolved, that in the death of P. Nahaolelua, the Hawaiian people have lest a staunch and long-tried friend; the chiefs, a sage counsellor and devoted servant, and the circle of his acquaintances a pleasant, sociable, tender-heatted friend.

Resolved-That having been identified with the introducon and organization of civilized government in this country, and having risen by his virtues and industry from an obscure osition in life to the highest dignity conferred on a subject, we respect his memory and deplore his death.

Resolved—That we sympathize with the widow and relatives of the deceased in this great loss, and sincerely hope, hat his son and grandchildren may grow up to emulate his circues and perpetuate his memory among the Hawaiian sconic. Resolved.—That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to his bereaved family, to His Majesty the King, to Her Majesty Queen Emma Kaleleonalani, and a copy for publication in the newspapers of Honolulu. To the Editor of the Pacific Commercial Advertiser : Sir-The last number of your paper contains an article apparently editorial, on the subject of the "Water Supply" which so abounds in inaccuracies, as to render a concise review of it indispensable. The author of that article contends that the whole supply of the city and suburbs can at the present day be furnished by the spring, which, he says, is only a few yards above the reservoir-its real position being within the grounds occupied by the Minister of Finance, and certainly more than a quarter of a mile above the reservoir. So much for the accuracy of his knowledge of the matter on which he assumes to instruct others. He says that the plentiful deposit of soil and sediment that we find in our water containers every day * * * * might be avoided by using only the water from the dition and circumstances of the water demand and supply, remain quite unchanged since the completion of the reservoir fifteen years ago, and that because as he asserts that stream alone sufficed to supply the entire demand for two years, (but which others deny) that therefore it remains to this day equally adequate for that service-manifestly quite unconscious of the great extent to which the late Superintendent spread and extended the water supply in every direction around the city and suburbs which of course necessitates a greatly increased amount of water to be constantly supplied. When the writer of that article insists in the face of that important act that that supply can still be furnished by the spring alone, he must be as completely unaware of its size and capacity, as I have proved him to be of its real position. The largest amount of water ever supplied by that spring is, and has been conveyed to the reservoir in a five inch pipe! of course it can only supply a fraction of the whole amount now constantly required, and in the emergency of such dry seasons as have frequently visited this locality, and will in all probability renew their unwelome visits, I am apprehensive that the combined supply of both the spring, and Kapena stream will prove barely if at all adequate to the demand. It is insinuated in that article—for it does not amount to an open manly assertion-that the silt traps and gates on the main pipe-if indeed the officers in charge are aware of their existence-have been and are entirely overlooked by them, and that for the whole period of fifteen years that has elapsed since the work was completed, no one remembers of an instance when the "silt traps" have been drawn off or the pipes rinsed out through the end gates; and the only duty performed by the Seperintendents being the (not quite trivial) one of collecting the water rates. If that writer had been imbued with a little more spirit of fair play he could readily have learned from the employees at the water office, who alone are cognizant of the fact, what the traps and gates are regularly opened once at least in every month, and the water allowed to flow through them freely until quite clear of pollution. That the water at Kapena which flows into the reservoir is and must be more or less polluted so long as it runs through an open drain in a cattle pasture cannot be denied, nor can that nuisance be abated until some effective measures are taken by those who have the power to do so, to prevent or remedy it. Most assuredly the Superintendent is powerless to furnish any remedy, and it is unjust and unfair to impeach him for what is manifestly beyond his control. Yours Obediently,

HENRY PRENDERGAST, Superintendent of Honolulu Water Works.
